

Product Features of Fridge Magnets

The types of fridge magnets available today are nearly endless. Not only are there many different kinds of promotional or advertising fridge magnets given out by many businesses, but decorative fridge magnets can be purchased or crafted by hand. Fridge magnets could be flat or three-dimensional (3D). Three dimensional means that an object has depth, length and width. Fridge magnets possibilities are really limited only by the imagination as some fridge magnets also serve as picture frames, pen and note sets, calendars, menus and business cards.

Business card fridge magnets are usually flat and are printed with information similar to that on a regular paper business card. They are made to adhere to metal filing cabinets in offices as well as for use on refrigerators. Some restaurants give out large cheap custom stickers with a delivery menu and their phone number on them. When the customer doesn't want to cook and would rather order food in, the restaurant's phone number and menu is then right there conveniently on the fridge. Many real estate agents and other professionals hand out handy calendar fridge magnets with their contact information.

Fridge magnets that feature a magnetic pen and note pad are convenient for making shopping lists as well as writing notes and reminders for family members. A picture frame magnet is a miniature picture frame with a magnetic backing. This can make a cute gift idea. For example, a gift for grandparents may include their grandchild's photograph, added to the fridge magnet. Similarly, a photograph of a pet could be inserted into the frame as a present for a pet lover.

Magnets designed for fridges can be purchased in retail and online stores in a wide array of designs, colors and materials. Acrylic, ceramic, wood and metal designs in many different shapes and sizes are available today, yet decades ago most fridge magnets were made mostly of brightly colored plastic. Decorative fridge magnets have many different motifs such as animals, sports and flowers. Making fridge magnets is inexpensive, quick and easy. Painted wood cut-outs or even seashells with a magnet glued onto the back may make desirable types of handmade fridge magnets.
